TonicSea Aller Pro

In humans, mast cells are present in most tissues, but are especially abundant in the skin, mucosa of the lungs, gastrointestinal tract, as well as the mouth and nose. These cells enable allergic reactions to occur by binding immunoglobulin E (IgE), which primes them to release histamine and cytokines. Aller Pro contains potent antioxidants and plant-derived nutrients that may help reduce seasonal allergy symptoms (especially in the nasal/sinus regions) by effectively blocking cytokine and histamine activity.*
